Chickaloon

Chickaloon is located off the Glenn Highway and is surrounded by the Talkeetna and Chugach Mountains and flanked by the mighty Matanuska River, making it a great starting point for outdoor adventures. Originally the area was a center of trade by Athabascan people who brought copper, sheep, and goats from the north to swap for salmon, beluga whale, and fur seals from tribes from the south. The most popular activity in Chickaloon is whitewater rafting on the Matanuska River. The river is famous for the Lion Head, a stretch of Class III-IV rapids. King Mountain State Recreation Site is a popular camping and fishing destination on the banks of the Matanuska River within a mile of town. Farther west is Matanuska Glacier, a 24-mile-long river of ice where outfitters take visitors for treks across the frozen surface or rig them up with crampons and ice axes for an afternoon of ice climbing.

Palmer

As the borough seat of the Matanuska-Susitna Borough, Palmer is located 42 miles northeast of Anchorage on the Glenn Highway in the Matanuska Valley. Palmer hosts the annual Alaska State Fair, and is also the headquarters of the National Tsunami Warning Center. In Palmer you will find several hotels, restaurants, and plenty of shopping (both local and national).
