Mill City

Mill City is an unincorporated community in Pershing County, Nevada. The community got its start as a mining community. Due to its convenient access, the area also processed ores from outside mines. After the area mines closed up it transformed to a bedroom community. It still has gas, groceries and a restaurant to serve the locals.

Pershing County

As the last county to be established in Nevada, Pershing County has a population of nearly 7,000 residents and its county seat lies in Lovelock. It is home to the Black Rock Desert location of the annual Burning Man Festival (partially in Pershing County). Lying 20 miles SW of Mill City is one of Pershing Counties largest attractions, Rye Patch Reservoir. With 72 miles of shoreline this outdoor playground is home to trophy fishing, camping, boating, and great water skiing and swimming.
